

BELLBOY OFFERS NEW PLEA TO SAVE LIFE

PARDON OF CAPT. HAINS ASKED BY JURORS

WEATHER—Fair To-Night and Tuesday; Warmer.

FINAL EDITION.

The

World

FINAL
EDITION.

"Circulation Books Open to All."

"Circulation Books Open to All."

PRICE ONE CENT.

Copyright, 1911, by The Press Publishing Co. (The New York World).

NEW YORK, MONDAY, AUGUST 21, 1911.

12 PAGES

PRICE ONE CENT.

WOMAN FATALLY INJURED BY RICH CONTRACTOR'S CAR

Middle-Aged Pedestrian Bewildered Crossing Sixth Avenue at Forty-fifth Street.

TERRY PICKS HER UP.

Takes Victim to Hospital and Blames a "Busybody" on Sidewalk.

A woman about forty-five years old whose name is believed to be Helen Parker, was knocked down and seriously injured this afternoon at Forty-fifth street and Sixth avenue by an automobile owned by Edward Terry, Mr. Terry was riding in the car, which was driven by his chauffeur, Lewis Smith of Yonkers and Dunwoodie avenues, Yonkers.

The victim of the accident is suffering from fractures of both arms, a fracture of the left leg and internal injuries. She was caught and dragged by the car after being struck.

Mr. Terry, who took the woman to Roosevelt Hospital in his car as soon as possible after the accident happened, says the chauffeur was not to blame. He places responsibility for the mishap on a busy person who shouted directions to Helen Parker as she was crossing Sixth avenue from north to south.

The automobile was passing through Forty-fifth street to the west. The woman carried a parasol which shut off from her view traffic approaching from Fifth avenue. Mr. Terry says the car was running slowly, the chauffeur having slowed down to cross the Sixth avenue trolley tracks.

The woman was practically out of danger and would have recovered but for some one on the sidewalk shouting a warning. She ran directly against the front of the car and was knocked down. Mr. Terry jumped out, picked up the woman and placed her in the tonneau. Patrolman Scherer of the Traffic Squad ran up and asked that the woman be badly hurt. He suggested calling an ambulance, but Mr. Terry volunteered to use his car for the purpose of taking the victim of the accident to the hospital. At his request the policeman went along.

The woman was unconscious from the time she was picked up. The name Helen Parker was taken from documents in her possession, but nothing was found to indicate her address.

Mr. Terry is one of the wealthiest contractors in the city. His firm built the steel work of the Manhattan Bridge and is interested in nearly all the great building enterprises in this vicinity. Despite Mr. Terry's declaration that his chauffeur was blameless Smith was placed under arrest. It was found that he has no license to drive a car. Information received by the police late this afternoon that the injured woman lived at No. 149 East Twenty-ninth street. At that address a Mrs. McDuffie, a boarding house, said Mrs. McDuffie lived with her up to about two months ago and left no address when she went away. Mrs. McDuffie thinks Mrs. Parker conducted a dressmaking establishment in West Fifty-third street.

THREE TAFT MESSAGES SENT TO CONGRESS.

In One President Urges a Further Appropriation for Raising the Maine.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—President Taft sent three messages to Congress today, one urging a further appropriation to complete the work of raising the wreck of the battleship Maine, a second asking Congress to determine whether the wreck of the Maine vessel sunk by the American navy shall be given away, and the third transmitting reports of engineers' surveys on the Great Lakes.

POPE PIUS SUFFERS A SLIGHT RELAPSE.

ROME, Aug. 21.—Pope Pius suffered a slight relapse today and was unable to leave his room. Over exertion yesterday during the intense heat is given as the cause. The Pontiff's physicians say that only through complete rest and a continued withdrawal from the affairs of the church and their attendant worries can the Pope regain his health and strength.

LOST BRIDEGROOM AND GIRL DESERTED AT WEDDING HOUR.

MARY CASELLA.

WILLIAM STEIFER.

JURORS PETITION GOVERNOR TO SET CAPT. HAINS FREE

Would Never Have Convicted Him If They Had Foreseen Long Term, They Say.

The movement to secure a pardon for Capt. Peter C. Hains, now serving a sentence in Sing Sing for the murder of William E. Annis, was launched today by Aaron Berman, an attorney at No. 913 Third avenue, Brooklyn. Mr. Berman admitted that his aid in the matter was enlisted by the captain's brother, T. Jenkins Hains, and that he was moved by pity for the parents of the prisoner as well as a sense of justice.

The movement to secure a pardon for Capt. Peter C. Hains, now serving a sentence in Sing Sing for the murder of William E. Annis, was launched today by Aaron Berman, an attorney at No. 913 Third avenue, Brooklyn. Mr. Berman admitted that his aid in the matter was enlisted by the captain's brother, T. Jenkins Hains, and that he was moved by pity for the parents of the prisoner as well as a sense of justice.

TAFT PUTS SIGNATURE TO STATEHOOD BILL.

President Approves Measure Admitting Arizona and New Mexico to the Union.

BRIDEGROOM LOST IN WEDDING GARB ON WAY TO CHURCH

200 Guests Wonder and Fiancee Collapses When He Fails to Appear.

HAD BOUQUET IN HAND.

Young William Steifer Drops Out of Sight and the Police Search.

Instead of being a happy bride today, Miss Mary Casella, nineteen years old, is hysterical from grief and fear and in charge of physicians at her home, No. 111 East One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street, while the police all over the city are trying to solve the mystery of the disappearance of the prospective bridegroom. William Steifer, aged twenty-two, an employee of the Customs House, who was to have married her last night at 6 o'clock at All Saints Church, One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street and Madison avenue. She believes her sweetheart has met with foul play.

Young Steifer lives at No. 440 East One Hundred and Fifty-sixth street. Attired in his dress suit and carrying a shower bouquet for his bride-to-be, he left his home about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon to go to her home and accompany her to the church. No one has been found who saw him after he left the One Hundred and Fifty-sixth street house.

The couple are well known in that part of Harlem and have been sweethearts for three years. Yesterday morning he paid his fiancée a visit and told her he would return in the afternoon with his best man, William Steifer, a cousin.

BRIDE IN WEDDING GARB WAITS IN VAIN.

One hundred invitations had been sent out to their friends and the Rev. Father James W. Powers had arranged to perform the ceremony. Miss Casella donned her bridal robes about the middle of the afternoon and when it was long past 3 o'clock and her fiancé had not appeared, she began to get anxious. As the hour for the wedding approached and he had not been heard from, she and her parents decided he had changed his plans and would go direct to the church.

Just before the appointed time Miss Casella, accompanied by her parents and bridesmaids, Miss Frances Chambers of No. 228 Lexington avenue, went to the church. They found it decorated, the singers in their places and the edifice crowded with friends. The Rev. Father Powers was on hand and nothing was lacking for the ceremony except the bridegroom. Among the spectators was the mother of young Steifer. When questioned, she said her son had left home at 3 o'clock in his wedding clothes, carrying a bouquet and saying he was going straight to the church. She said she had seen nothing of the bridegroom, and messengers were sent out in all directions to look for him.

There was considerable excitement among the spectators, and everything possible was done to quiet the fears of the bride and persuade her that her fiancé was delayed through some accident.

FEARS AWFUL FATE HAS OVER-TAKEN HIM.

For almost two hours everybody waited. Then the bride broke down and wept hysterically, refusing to be comforted and declaring that she knew some awful fate had overtaken her sweetheart. Her friends gathered around her, patted her, embraced and kissed her in their efforts to reassure her, but finding a doctor had to be called.

He advised that she be taken home immediately, and that she was hysterical. She cried for the church and the lights were turned out.

Mother of Bellboy on Trial for Killing Broker in Hotel

MRS. M. GEIDEL.

RESCUES FIVE FROM MOTORBOAT AT BRIDGE FIRE

Engineer Schmidt Heard Their Cries and Saved Them and Himself.

Three women and two men faced death by fire and water when their motorboat, the Osprey, slammed against the New York Central Railroad drawbridge spanning the Harlem at Spuyten Duyvil at two o'clock this morning. Just as the bridge itself caught fire. The motorboat hit the draw with such force that it capsize, throwing all five into the river. Overhead, the engine room, in which is housed the mechanism that works the draw, was bursting into flame, and as they struck the water, a shower of sparks from the sun-burched wooden structure hailed all about them.

Overhead, Engineer August Schmidt of No. 282 East One Hundred and Fifty-eighth street had been sitting and watching the boiler fires in blissful ignorance of the fact that a defective flue had set fire to the ceiling of the room. When the motorboat crashed against the draw he aroused with a start and noticed the fire for the first time. Thinking that something had exploded he started down the narrow and almost perpendicular stairs to the footpath, intent on turning in an alarm.

Halfway down the stairs he heard a faint cry for help. He was unable to locate the direction from which the cry came. But as he continued down the stairs he heard the cry again. It was a woman's voice. Just as he reached the footpath he saw the little motorboat and the men and women clinging to her upturned keel.

SCHMIDT'S OWN RESCUE BOAT IN DANGER OF SWAMPING. Letting the fire take care of itself for the time being Schmidt devoted his attention to the drowning persons. By this time the engine room was a mass of flames and the sparks were showering all over the bridge and dropping into the water. The thing essential of the women's safety was reaching fire in a down stream. It came and they had to submerge themselves deep up to the chin in order to save themselves from burning. Schmidt ran for the footpath moored at one end of the bridge and jumping into it rowed toward the draw.

GIANTS AND CUBS BEGIN SERIES THAT MAY WIN PENNANT

Marquard and Richie in Great Form in Early Innings at Polo Grounds.

BATTING ORDER.

New York: Devore, 2b; Herzog, 2b; Schulte, rf; Tinker, ss; Zimmerman, c; Becker, rf; Merkle, lb; Devlin, 3b; Hoffman, cf; Fletcher, c; Saier, lb; Fieteler, c; Archer, c; Marquard, p. Chicago: Scheekard, lf; Schulte, rf; Tinker, ss; Zimmerman, c; Becker, rf; Merkle, lb; Devlin, 3b; Hoffman, cf; Fletcher, c; Saier, lb; Fieteler, c; Archer, c; Marquard, p.

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, AUG. 21.—There was 26,000 people on hand when the Giants and the Cubs met in the opening game, and it looked like a tough going, with a battle on how sides, as Marquard was on the mound for the Giants and Ritchie did the honors for the Cubs.

Both teams failed to score in the first inning, and the only man to reach first was Scheekard when he got a base on balls. Marquard gave the fans a great thrill by striking out Schulte and Tinker. The Giants could not get a man to first in their half.

In the second inning Marquard was still going like a buzz saw; not a Cub reached first base.

In the last half of the second the Giants got the same dose. It was a case of three up and three down.

The Cubs grabbed the lead in the third inning when Ritchie made the first hit off Marquard by bouncing one off his wrist, there was one out at the time, but Scheekard got another base on balls and Schulte shot a single into center, Ritchie scoring. Tinker struck out for the second time and Scheekard was doubled up at third trying to steal. In the last half of the third Fletcher was hit by a pitched ball. Meyers lined out to Schulte, but Marquard walked. Devore and Herzog also fled to Schulte and retired the side.

DREIER MARRIAGE IS NULL AND VOID, HER FAMILY SAYS

Edward Trumbull Had Not Been Freed Legally from a Former Wife.

CEREMONY ON AUG. 8.

Bridegroom Called West Immediately by Serious Illness of His Mother.

The family of Miss Katherine S. Dreier, one of the most prominent young society women in Brooklyn, announced today through their counsel, George D. Bestly, that the young woman's recent marriage to Edward Trumbull was null and void because of the fact that Mr. Trumbull had not been legally freed from an earlier marriage.

The young couple were married on Aug. 8 at the home of Miss Dreier's brother, H. Edward Dreier, No. 8 Montague Terrace, by the Rev. Raymond Robins, a brother-in-law of Miss Dreier. The following statement concerning the annulment of the marriage was issued by Mr. Bestly's today:

"Mr. and Mrs. H. Edward Dreier, who sent out the formal announcement of the marriage of Miss Katherine S. Dreier, sister of Mr. Dreier, to Edward Trumbull, on Aug. 8 last, have formally recalled such notice."

Mr. Bestly added that he preferred to say nothing, but, owing to the large circle of acquaintances Miss Dreier had in Brooklyn, he would simply say for publication that it developed, after the ceremony had been performed, that Mr. Trumbull was not legally free, as he had believed, from a wife by a prior marriage, and that his marriage to Miss Dreier is therefore void.

Mr. Trumbull left the city for the West immediately after the ceremony, being called there by the serious illness of his mother, and has not returned here. Miss Dreier has left on an extended trip and will be gone several months.

SCORES TO-DAY

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

AT NEW YORK.

CHICAGO—0 0 1 3 3 4 1 —
GIANTS—0 0 0 0 0 0 0 —
Batteries—Richie and Archer; Marquard and Meyers.

AT BROOKLYN.

ST. LOUIS—0 1 2 0 —

BROOKLYN—0 0 1 0 —

Batteries—Saline and Bliss; Kuetzer and Bergen.

AT PHILADELPHIA.

PITTSBURG—4 2 1 0 0 0 —

PHILADELPHIA—2 0 0 0 0 3 —

Batteries—Steele and Gibson; Chalmers and Madden.

AT BOSTON.

CINCINNATI—3 0 4 0 0 0 0 —

BOSTON—0 0 0 0 4 0 2 —

AMERICAN LEAGUE

AT DETROIT.

HIGHLANDERS—2 0 0 —

DETROIT—0 1 0 —

Batteries—Warhop and Skene; Doughty and Adams.

AT CHICAGO.

WASHINGTON—1 0 0 0 —

CHICAGO—0 0 0 0 —

World Building Turkish Baths. Always open. Bath with Turkish, Russian and massage. Chicago's best at 1200 Broadway, 93 Park Row.

FIVE JURORS CHOSEN TO TRY BELLBOY FOR THE MURDER IN HOTEL

State Rejects Offer of Second Degree Plea Made By Paul Geidel, Accused of Killing William H. Jackson.

EMBRACES HIS MOTHER IN CROWDED COURT-ROOM

Prosecutor Hints That the Counsel for Prisoner Arranged the Scene for Its Effect on the Jury.

Just after the third juror had been selected in the trial of Bellboy Paul Geidel, for the murder of William H. Jackson, an elderly Wall street man, in his room in the Iroquois Hotel on July 26, James A. Gray, of the defendant's counsel, asked for a conference with District Attorney Whitman, who is overseeing the work of Assistant District Attorneys Nott and O'Malley in prosecuting the case.

Mr. Gray talked earnestly to Mr. Whitman, who then had a whispered conversation with Mr. Nott and Mr. O'Malley. Then he turned back to Mr. Gray and shook his head.

"No. We cannot accept it under any circumstances," said Mr. Whitman.

THE GEIDEL JURY.

No. 1. (Foreman), GABRIEL MAR-LUX, manager, No. 621 Broadway.
No. 2. THOMAS WILLIAMS, department store buyer, No. 108 West One Hundred and Ninth street.
No. 3. JOSEPH H. PHINNEY, advertising, No. 130 West One Hundred and Twelfth street.
No. 4. ROBERT G. STELLING, broker, No. 7 Wall street, home No. 19 East Seventy-seventh street.
No. 5. ALBERT M. TRACHT, silk, at No. 70 West Houston street, living at 988 Teller avenue, the Bronx.

ACCUSED IS RED-EYED WHEN BROUGHT INTO COURT.

Geidel was red-eyed from crying and said stiff when he was called before Judge T. C. T. Crain in the Court of General Sessions. Geidel had been a bellboy in the hotel and had noted Mr. Jackson, who was elderly and deaf and the cashier of Van Schalk & Co., Wall street brokers, as a very rich man because of the liberality of his tips to the hotel help.

When Court Clerk Wolf said, "No. 1, Paul Geidel, to the bar," the tall, thin, red-eyed man, who was called before Judge T. C. T. Crain in the Court of General Sessions, Geidel had been a bellboy in the hotel and had noted Mr. Jackson, who was elderly and deaf and the cashier of Van Schalk & Co., Wall street brokers, as a very rich man because of the liberality of his tips to the hotel help.

EIGHTY ROWDIES SENTENCED TO JAIL AT CONEY ISLAND

Some Get Three Days, Others Two and Ten Married Men Are Fined.

The largest number of prisoners sentenced to the workhouse since the present crusade of the "strong arm squad" against car rowdies became effective got their medicine in the Coney Island Police Court today. Magistrate Hyman administered the dose. He sent sixty men to jail for three days and twenty for two days. The remaining ten of the record-breaking catch he let off with fines because they were married and didn't seem to be rowdies to the manner born.

The ninety prisoners were gathered in at the Culver and West End stations on Coney Island. More than a score of members of the "strong arm squad" were on duty all day watching out for men who climb through windows of the cars as they are being loaded. These men, ruthlessly disregarding the rights of others seeking to get about the trains, climb through the windows and very frequently step over women and children in their frantic and indecent scramble for seats.

As soon as a "strong arm" spotted the door opened. A boyish figure stood framed in it. Two fat, white-headed court officers in blue and brass stood behind him. He turned back to them almost as if the gate of the hundreds in the court-room "fringed him and he wanted to run. One of them laid his hand, not unkindly, on his arm and pushed him forward. The boy walked jerkily, stupidly, as though the partial paralysis of fear was on him. There were great red semi-circles under his eyes. His face has been described as boyishly handsome and cherubic. It was not so today. His color had a sickly yellow tinge. His back sloping forward, his thin tipped mouth, his frightened rat